Isis Innovation is the research and technology commercialisation company of the University of Oxford. We provide access to technology from Oxford researchers through intellectual property licensing, spin-out company formation and material sales, and to academic expertise and technical services through Oxford University Consulting.

The Isis Startup Incubator provides support for entrepreneurs from the University with a business concept that is not the outcome of University research but can nonetheless benefit from the expertise and facilities provided by Isis Innovation.

We are the highest university patent filer in the UK and are ranked 1st in the UK for university spin-outs, having created more than 100 new companies in 25 years. Winner 'Technology Transfer Unit of the Year' – Global University Venturing 2014.

INNOVATION

How can we help?

Isis Innovation is all about helping others to do business. Whether you're an undergrad, postgrad student (or post doc), we can offer support for your business ideas and competition entries.

Do you have a great idea for a new business or perhaps an invention?

Looking for support to make it happen?

Isis Innovation has a team with a wealth of experience, and can offer:

- Specific advice about intellectual property
- Funding for proof-of-concept and access to seed funds
- Help with setting up a business, including finding investors
- For start-up ideas, the Isis Startup Incubator is aimed at students and alumni of the University wanting to start or grow new ventures
- Connections to the many other sources of support and networks for entrepreneurs in Oxford
